Part-time participation in the Postgraduate Studies in ICT & Media Law programme

It is possible to participate in the programme on a part-time basis, spreading the programme over two years, with a more or less equal amount of credits for each of these two years (for instance: the two first course blocks in the first year, and the third course block and the internship in the second year). To discuss this option, please contact the programme director, Dr. Eva Lievens.

Required presence in Leuven

Although residential study is recommended (access to the library's facilities, contact with faculty, tutors, the education coordinator, and fellow students...), it is only explicitly required to be physically present in Leuven during the three intensive course blocks, which each lasts three weeks (first course block in October; second course block: mid-November; third course block: January / internship: February-March - subject to arrangement).
